Be true to your soul

Potosa Spa

The worlds most sought after spas share one endearing trait- a deep and authentic connection to the community they call home. The bond may be to the land, or an indigenous people or even a mystery unsolved. At Potosa Spa, there are links to all three.

The spa is named in honor of Potosa, daughter of Peosta, the chief of the Meskwaki or Fox Native American tribe that inhabited this area now known as Dubuque. Legend has it she was also the wife of Julien Dubuque, the town's namesake and friend to the Fox. In what some storytellers have called "a great romance of the Old West," Julien purportedly stole Potosa under cover of night from a neighboring tribe, where she had been promised in marriage to the chief's son. In a personal letter, Dubuque referred to a "Madam Dubuque" yet there was no mention of a wife when his estate was settled upon his death in 1810, giving rise to the belief that if a wife existed she was a Native American who returned to her tribe after his death.

Today, you'll find treatments at Potosa Spa that are inspired by the Native American Medicine Wheel, drawing from the four directions and four elements of earth, wind, water, and fire.

As you journey through life take good care to listen to your heart and be true to your soul.

Potosa Policies and Procedures

Spa Etiquette

If you are a first-time spa-goer, you may wonder what you will need to bring or wear during spa treatments. Upon arrival you will be shown to our men's/ladies' lounge areas where you will be offered a robe and sandals to enjoy during your visit with us. You will then be shown to the Relaxation Lounge where you may relax until your therapist greets you for your treatment. Upon entering the treatment room or salon area, you will discuss with your therapist what your expectations are for the service. Your therapist will invite you to get comfortable to your desired level, whether that be to wear a bathing suit, undergarments, or disrobe completely; it will be left to your discretion.

For the peace and tranquility of all of our guests, we ask that all electronic devices be silenced during your visit.

Gratuities for treatments at Potosa Spa will be left to the discretion of the guest and are meant to commend therapists for exceptional service. Should you choose to leave a gratuity, simply leave it with the staff at the front desk upon your departure. The standard within the spa industry is 20% of the treatment cost; however, do feel empowered to leave whatever you desire for your therapist.
